

About me...

I have been studying herbal medicine and making remedies for over 30 years, and I graduated from the British School of Homoeopathy in 2008 and have been in practice since then.

I like to explore the ways that all natural phenomena are interconnected and have potential to work as curative medicine.

I enjoy continuing to study all aspects of natural medicine including making herbal and homoeopathic remedies and working with nutrition and supplements.

I am also a Level two Reiki practitioner and am happy to offer treatments if required.
